INTRODUCTION TO FESF

Family Educational Services Foundation (FESF) is a charitable organization committed to education and social impact in Pakistan. We focus on the empowerment of disadvantaged deaf children and youth through a holistic approach to deaf education, skills training, job placement, and sign language development – creating lasting change in their lives and that of their families.

OUR VALUES

are at the core of everything we do

RESPECT

We respect all people, and support and advocate for children and youth who face challenges due to disability.

INCLUSIVENESS

We succeed by working effectively with others, both inside and outside our organization and schools. We come together in common cause to create and implement solutions in our local communities.

EMPOWERMENT

We believe that every child deserves access to language and education that will empower them to reach their potential, be socially engaged, and experience an improved quality of life.

LASTING IMPACT

We strive to achieve significant and lasting impact in the lives of the children and youth we serve. We embrace innovation, responsiveness, and technology to become agents for development and change.

FOUNDER'S NOTE

NAVIGATING THE PANDEMIC

When Covid-19 hit we had to adapt rapidly and innovate to ensure continuity and safeguard our decades of hard work. The year was spent learning and adjusting and now, one and a half years later, we are ready to talk about what changed.

Navigating the pandemic and ensuring best outcomes for our staff and students at Deaf Reach as well as the beneficiaries of the Eduserve Program was very challenging. Our teams had to learn to work from home and teach through technology, and we worked relentlessly to overcome delays brought on by the lockdowns, urban flooding, frequent power cuts, and erratic school openings and closures.

The Eduserve team experienced a massive change in their work plan – from their model of hands-on training sessions in the heart of communities and educational institutes, they were forced to shift their programs online. They made the transition, and were able to impact thousands of participants and community members. In addition, they conducted an online symposium for university students and faculty that focused on diversity, tolerance and peacebuilding.

The biggest challenge we faced due to closures was how to care for our deaf students to keep them current and prevent erosion of their language skills. With generous support from key donors, we set up an in-house studio and the Deaf Reach team began the process of digitizing a large repository of curricular resources in Pakistan Sign Language (PSL). Our students were supplied with refurbished low-cost laptops, and we delivered the digital content monthly during the entire lockdown period.

Thus, this time of adversity has birthed a new and innovative program that has set the tone for the future of Deaf education in Pakistan! What started as an interim distance learning program has now evolved into a larger, much longer-ranging digital learning program hosted on www.psl.org.pk and available country-wide to all Deaf users, teachers of the Deaf, and the community at large.

Thank you for your support in this past difficult year, and we look forward to your continuing partnership to help us accomplish even more in the year ahead as we work together to change lives.

With thanks and appreciation,

OUR PROGRAMS

Deaf Reach Program

According to recent demographics in Pakistan there are over one million deaf children, yet less than 5% of these have access to education!

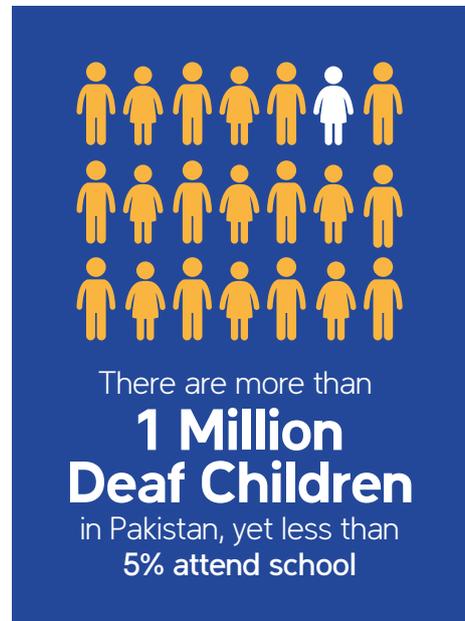

Deaf Reach is one of the only branch networks of schools for the Deaf in Pakistan reaching out into rural areas. Its programs are continually expanding to empower marginalized deaf youth, the majority of whom are economically challenged, to provide them a brighter future.

The program's innovative and holistic approach focuses on education and skills training for deaf children and youth; development of teachers and interpreters; Pakistan Sign Language programs for parents and communities; advocacy; job placement; and the creation of educational resources for the Deaf.

A robust curriculum of signed video content was filmed in-house covering 4 key subjects: Math, Science, English and Urdu. This partnership explored mechanisms for distributing the content to out-of-school children with methods to facilitate teacher and parent engagement.

What We Did

- Tested various edtech interventions, including offline vs online laptops (with preloaded content), and laptops with smartphones to identify the impact of technologies on teacher engagement and learning outcomes
- Experimented with various methods of parental engagement in distance learning for deaf children to determine what gave best results
- Identified how to best "package" the edtech intervention so that it is an easy to use replicable model both for Government and non-profit sectors

Membership at WHO

We are happy to announce that FESF has been granted membership in the World Hearing Forum, an advocacy network of The World Health Organization (WHO). This opportunity will further open doors to work for the empowerment of the Deaf community in Pakistan.

A Parent's Perspective

Case Study

Shahida Parveen is the mother of a deaf female student enrolled at Deaf Reach School in Sukkur, Pakistan. At home, in addition to her daughter, she also has a son with special needs and an elderly mother-in-law to attend to. Having a deaf daughter has made Shahida extra observant of the struggles faced by deaf girls in the country. Coming from a rural setting, she narrates her experience with Deaf Reach below:

"I often travel through rural areas where I come across a lot of deaf children. Since my daughter is deaf, I have an interest in observing how deaf girls live. From what I can see, they are not offered the right to live their lives well; they are not given a chance to get an education, and are married off at a young age after which they are mostly occupied with house chores and provide for their in-laws in the capacity of a housewife. Despite their hard-work, they are not granted much importance in their villages, where their integral roles go unnoticed. When I look at them, I see fear in their eyes and a complete lack of confidence.

When I look at them, I see fear in their eyes and a complete lack of confidence.

It makes me glad that I have the opportunity for my daughter to acquire a quality education from a reputable institution like the Deaf Reach School. I dream that she will be able to use her reading and writing skills to do something meaningful. I am proud of her for taking keen interest in her education. Her hard work and dedication make me extremely happy. With God's help, she will definitely gain success through her academic journey.

She recently secured the first position in her class. The most important thing for me is that at Deaf Reach she can do anything at the same level a hearing child would, without any discrimination. Last year when the Covid-19 pandemic began, Deaf Reach introduced the Distance Learning Program (DLP). I am an educated woman and have a teaching experience of six years. Because of my experience, I was able to help my daughter with her studies at home. However, most other parents in my community were not able to. In this regard, teachers and staff at Deaf Reach were extremely accommodating, and facilitated every parent and student to maximize the students' learning, without leaving anyone behind."

Overall, enrolling her daughter at Deaf Reach has been a highly rewarding experience for Shahida Parveen. Not only has her daughter progressed academically but is now part of a vibrant community where she can continue to learn and grow in her pathway to self-reliance.

We are thankful to the Champions of Change program for signing this MoU with Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur. The students who are coming to our institute and to this program are from diverse backgrounds with different mindsets. The CoC program will help polish that mindset towards good. What these participants will learn can help them apply that in their villages, towns and families resulting in initiating a process of change no matter how small. ”

Professor Dr. Inayat Bhatti
Chairman Department of Pakistan Studies
Shah Abdul Latif University, Khairpur

To succeed in life, education and knowledge is important. Equally important is teambuilding, and the knowledge in knowing how to learn from others. To become successful, you must learn tolerance and try to understand everyone's points of view. COC plays a pivotal role as the program's theme centers on spreading peace, tolerance and diversity on university campuses across Pakistan. ”
